Called By
John Marshall

OPENER - CLOSER
Sides face grand square
Somebody's knockin', should I let 'em in?
Lord, it's the devil, would you look at him
I've heard about him, but I never dreamed
He'd had blue eyes and blue jeans
Allemande left and weave
He must've tapped my telephone line
Dosado and promenade one time
He must've known I was spending my time alone
Somebody's knocking now

FIGURE
Head two gonna promenade and travel halfway
Come on and square thru four hands that way
Go all the way and do a dosado
Pass thru, trade by, swing thru and go
All scoot back 'n now, in and out
Girls will trade, swing and promenade
If it's the devil I don't dare let him in Somebody's knockin' now

MIDDLE BREAK
Sides face, grand square
Four ladies promenade one time around you go
And now swing with your baby
Promenade around you know
He must've known I was spending my time alone
Somebody's knockin' now
